BUILDING ENVELOPE / ELEVATION

131 EXHIBITION ST, MELBOURNE VIC 3000, AUSTRALIA

17TH MARCH 2021

VISUAL FILTER

This elevation-like building acts as a barrier between the office and the street, constructed with glass panels and steel beams. The structure has a width of around 1.5m which is extremely thin. The diagram above shows the relation between the two spaces (the office and the street). The chosen building element evokes a system of visual filter. Visuality changes when looking out and into the building from different sides (office and street). The boldest block represents the building envelope with the system/ structure beams in between. The arrows emphasise the change insights are viewing from different sides.
